Human Services Technology

Program Outcomes:
Upon successful completion of this program:

1. The student will be able to explain the scope of human services, including the demand for services and the human conditions that warrant human services intervention.
2. The student will be able to evaluate a client's needs, values, cultures, and attitudes to effectively match the consumer with available community resources.
3. The student will be able to apply information management skills that include obtaining, analyzing, evaluating, and disseminating information.
4. The student will examine their own values, cultural biases, philosophies, and personality style and reflect on how their personal characteristics impact consumers.
5. The student will be able to apply basic helping techniques, communication skills, and ethical decision-making tools for working in the human services field.